Question:

In order to mill the existing asphalt at the bridge ends, it will be necessary for construction equipment (milling machine) to be placed on a section of the structure. Therefore, will an engineering analysis, evaluating the structural adequacy of this bridge, be required for this project?

Answer:

If the equipment used meets the criteria in Section 105.14 of the Standard Specifications and will operate on or cross the existing bridges, then an engineering analysis will be required.
